THE ACTORS FUND... AT A GLANCE

WHO WE ARE

The Actors Fund is a nonprofit, national human services organization that helps performing arts and entertainment professionals through a broad spectrum of social, health, employment, and housing programs that address their essential and critical needs.

WHO WE HELP

Everyone in the performing arts and entertainment industry. And we mean it. Whether they appear on stage, on camera, behind the scenes or “below the line,” we help professionals in film, theatre, television, music, opera, radio and dance. Every call is answered personally by our intake counselors who direct people to the services most appropriate for their needs.

LEADERSHIP

Brian Stokes Mitchell, Chairman of The Board
Joseph P. Benincasa, President and CEO

The Actors Fund’s Board of Trustees consists of 48 members representing all facets of the performing arts and entertainment community as well as leaders who are committed to those who work in entertainment.

HOW WE HELP

Through more than 25 comprehensive social and health-care services, employment and training programs and affordable, supportive and senior housing initiatives, The Actors Fund supports the arts by supporting artists and those working in entertainment when they’re in need, crisis or transition.

When we’re not able to provide direct assistance, The Actors Fund offers guidance and direction, coordinating care with other human services organizations and government agencies.

FUNDING

A non-profit organization, The Actors Fund’s annual budget is approximately $27 million, of which more than half represents private donations from foundations, corporations, entertainment guilds and unions as well as thousands of individuals. In addition, The Fund produces numerous theatrical events throughout the year to involve the community and raise additional funding for its programs.
